

(TMI Focus, Vol. XXI, No. 1, Winter 1999)

TDAP “GETTING IT OUT THERE”

by Darlene R. Miller, PhD, Director of Programs

The Trainer Development and Assessment Program (TDAP) was created as a first step toward becoming an accredited GATEWAY OUTREACH trainer. Its primary purpose is to provide a solid and broad base of knowledge regarding Hemi-Sync® and all aspects of TMI, as well as to develop skills for conducting successful EXCURSION Workshops. Because we want our “ambassadors-at-large” to represent us in the best possible light, a significant portion of the seven-day program involves assessment through written exams and a variety of behavioral measures. Obviously this is a very different kind of TMI experience, one that requires a high degree of commitment, dedication, diligence, enthusiasm, and stamina.

Our sixteen participants in the September 25 October 2, 1998, TDAP exhibited all these qualities in great abundance, as well as liberal amounts of humor and good-heartedness. Special acknowledgment is extended to our Danish, Swiss, and Spanish participants who labored all week under the considerable additional burden of having to read extensive materials, write, and perform simulations in other than their native tongues. Their efforts and dedication to the Hemi-Sync process were truly inspirational to everyone.

While TDAP is designed to be primarily a didactic and instructional week, the magic of TMI in combination with an open-hearted desire for deeper levels of self-discovery led a number of participants into areas of learning beyond the content covered in the workshop. Several examples follow:

“I enrolled in TDAP with the intention of learning everything I possibly could about Hemi-Sync and TMI so that I could help more people in my budding healing practice. I came away with so much more to give the world in really creative ways for using Hemi-Sync and group energy. I can’t wait to get started on the workshops.” M.P.

“I found all the simulations to be a great learning experience. With each simulation, I felt myself working with old fears and learning new ways to deal with the situation. I want to thank everyone for making a fearful moment into a great, safe, friendly, learning experience.” L.M.

“I had not expected such a profound process in my personal and spiritual growth. It was not only the tests and assessments, but also very much the process of watching and learning from the performance of others and the trainers. It was the most beneficial and most challenging program I have taken in the last years.” H.H.

One of Bob Monroe's last challenges to his daughter, Laurie, was to "get it out there." If you would like to join in bringing the Hemi-Sync tools for transformation to those in your local community, please consider enrolling in a TDAP program in 1999.

Hemi-Sync® is a registered trademark of Interstate Industries, Inc.
© 1999 The Monroe Institute